

Later Life Charities, Foundations, Trusts & Benevolent organisations

Charities, foundations, trusts and benevolent organisations can support people in later life in many ways, such as:

- Advice around budgeting, understanding their finances, guidance to benefit entitlements, when & how to obtain financial advice;
- Emotional support for bereavement, loneliness or anxiety;
- Support to remain active and fit;
- Practical support such as independent living assistance or repairs;
- Short term grants to cover household bills or funeral costs.

Ensure to research local charities or benevolent organisations in your area. If a client has been a professional often their professional body may be able to assist.
